

THE WARFIELD AT HOME.

The Elite of the Nation's Capital do Honors to Freedmen's Surgeon Chief and His Bride—Some of Those Present.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Warfield were the happy recipients of the congratulations of their many friends at a wedding reception given at their beautiful home, 1901 Eleventh street, n. w., from 8 to 10 o'clock Thursday evening. The house was superbly decorated and the walls of each room seemed to reflect "love knots and happy blossoms." The bride is a most charming and graceful personality and received the best wishes and good cheer of the guests in a most acceptable and diplomatic manner and impressed all with her superior intelligence and her most pleasing manners. The bride's gown, like her entire trousseau, was of exquisite texture, made after the most recent Paris fashion and her ornaments most artistically worn.

The groom was conventional in dress and displayed to advantage all of his admirable personal qualities so well known to his many friends and the public in general; and which have served him so well in life and which have been fittingly rewarded by his selection as Surgeon-in-Chief of Freedmen's Hospital.

The guests present represented the most representative citizens of Baltimore (the home of the bride) and Washington. The ladies present were veritable fashion plates and were arrayed in most beautiful and costly gowns. Their grace and style gave a high-toned and beautiful scenic effect to the occasion. Among those invited to the "At Home" were Misses Adah Thompson, Fannie L. Barbour, N. B. Grooms, Lavinia Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Smith, Misses Bell and Mattie Ball, Dr. and Mrs. D. Giant Scott, Mr. Jas. Fessenton, Dr. T. S. Hawkins, Mr. Mason Hawkins, Dr. and Mrs. Weaver, Rev. T. A. Cullen, Messrs. Thomas Thompson, William Rose, Melville Lee, Bernard Hughes, all of Baltimore.

Washington was represented by D. S. and Mesdames F. J. Shadd, C. B. Purvis, B. S. Lamb, E. A. Ballock, R. M. Brown, J. W. Mitchell, Sewell, W. S. Naylor, E. D. Williston; Prof. and Mrs. R. H. Terrell, Major and Mrs. Fleetwood, Prof. and Mrs. Kelley Miller, Captain and Mrs. T. S. Kelley, Major and Mrs. C. A. Douglass, Messrs. and Mesdames H. Y. Arnett, Collins, John Lemos, Haynes, J. G. Hutchins, Henry, D. B. McCary, H. E. Baker, Miss Margery Smith, Mrs. and Misses Ross, Miss Anna Simms, Rev. and Clair, Mrs. and Miss Sheppard, Dr. John P. Turner, Hughes, Mrs. Hawksworth, Misses Page, Rev. and Mrs. Thomas, Misses Minnette Williams, and Grinage, E. A. Sweet, Dr. W. P. Napier and others.

The presents were numerous and very handsome and among those noticed by The Colored American man were silver tea spoons; butter knives; butter dishes; sets of salt and pepper; handsome pictures; toilet sets, spreads; table covers; ornaments; lamps; clocks; chocolate pitchers; photo of the bride (life size); sugar spoons; towels; napkins; candleabra; shams; table covers; mustard spoons; oyster forks; salad dishes; plates; plaque; jardaniere; a beautiful plant; a rocking chair; umbrella stand; hassock; vases, soup ladles; rose jars; table; and many others. The season's delicacies were served in proper style and after merry and hearty greetings all said adieu and thus ended a very pretty reception.

MRS. HARRIETT TUBMAN.

A HEROINE IN EBONY.

A very unique but most valuable pamphlet has come to this office under the caption of "Harriet Tubman the Heroine in Ebony." It is prepared by Mr. Robert W. Taylor the financial secretary of Tuskegee institute with a most pertinent introduction by Prof. Booker T. Washington. The story of the life of this brave woman should be known by every intelligent Afro-American old as well as young. Her career reads like a romance wonderfully blended with the elements of fiction. She was in service in the dark days, was a active participant in the underground railway and without a knowledge of the compass her only guide was the North star. She is now in poverty and the object of the pamphlet is to secure funds enough through the sale of it to make the final payment on her home. Through the efforts of Mr. Taylor, Prof. Washington and others, a small sum has been raised but more is needed. The pamphlet sells for 25 cents but it is worth fifty times the selling price. Every Afro-American of race pride and every patriotic American should buy a copy of this pamphlet.

Send 25 cents to Robert W. Taylor, 7 Grenville Place, Boston, Mass. Agents are wanted and good commissions will be given. The Editor of The Colored American hopes that every reader of The Colored American will send at least 25 cents to the above address for one of these pamphlets and that those who are interested in this noble woman will buy more copies and secure agents.

Mr. W. H. Bates, who owns one of the leading groceries in Annapolis, Md. was in to see us last Tuesday, while in town on business.
